One of the more unique services on the campus is the UF Health Birth Center. Staffed by certified nurse midwives, the center features two birth suites with the look and feel of a modern, comfortable home. Each suite has a heated spa tub, where moms can relax, labor and give birth, if they choose. There is also a cozy family area where loved ones will be encouraged to come and share the birth experience.

When will the hospital open on the North campus?

Groundbreaking and construction of the 92-bed inpatient hospital began in Nov. 2015, with completion targeted for mid-2017.
